

THE MYNDE – Plasterwork Conservation

Challenge

Damage and decay to the roof of this important Herefordshire building had allowed rain to leak into the plasterwork of the Hall.

Solution

The conservation of the ceiling required the insertion of a matrix of stainless steel ties, wires and rods which now hold the vaulted ceiling firmly in place. Water damaged plasterwork was removed and replaced with new casts of decorative elements.

Results

On this occasion our professional and highly skilled team were able to reinstate this magnificent ceiling for future generations to further enjoy.
